Truck driver in fatal crash loses court appeal

By Larry Limp
News Editor
news@presspublications.com

The Ohio Sixth District Court of Appeals has upheld the conviction of a truck driver who was involved in a fatal crash in August 2019 on I-280 in Lake Township.

The appeals court affirmed the sentence the Wood County Common Pleas Court imposed on Lawrence Nastal, who struck vehicles that had stopped or slowed for a construction zone between the Walbridge Road overpass and an Ohio Turnpike ramp. The collision killed three persons and seriously injured two others.

Nastal was convicted on three counts of vehicular homicide, which are first degree misdemeanors, and two counts of vehicular assault, fourth degree felonies. The court sentenced him to 180 days in jail for the misdemeanor counts – to be served concurrently; two years of community control for the felony counts, and suspended his driving privileges for three years.

In his appeal, Nastal argued his case was one of negligence, not recklessness, and as such the felony convictions for vehicular assault were not supported by sufficient evidence.

But the appeals court rejected his argument.

"With the exception of appellant's own testimony that he was not reckless, but merely negligent, there is no conflicting testimony regarding the events on the day of the crash. The evidence demonstrated slowing and stopped traffic, signage alerting drivers to a construction zone, and appellant's (Nastal) high rate of speed, inappropriate for the circumstances," the appeals court wrote. "Significantly, appellant kept his cruise control engaged, set at 60 miles per hour, up until seconds before he crashed into traffic. Appellant's claim that he did not perceive the circumstances...does not negate the evidence of recklessness."

"It is clear that, while speed does not always equal recklessness, the evi-

Oregon OKs bid to renovate space in police division

By Kelly J. Kaczala
News Editor
kkaczala@presspublications.com

Oregon City Council on Monday approved a purchase order to Lakeside Interior Contractors, Perrysburg, for the renovation of the records and former dispatch center in the Oregon Police Division.

With the recent consolidation of dispatch, the police department is renovating the old dispatch center to repurpose the area.

"When dispatch vacated the room that they were in, that left us with some open space to rework," said Police Chief Brandon Begin. "We will move the records section to a bigger area to accommodate for that, and redo the whole records department section to make it a more usable space for us. We just want to get this space more usable for what we need."

During the 2022 budget meetings, the renovation was discussed, with some funds set aside for the project.

Three quotes were submitted, according to Begin: Lakeside, at $49,500; Rudolph Libbe Inc., for $60,000; and Buehrer Group for a range of $200,000 to $240,000 with an additional cost of $16,000 for architectural and engineering design.

Lakeside submitted the lowest combined quote to complete the full renovation.

We knew if we were going to do it cheaper, we would have to accommodate and do less with the space.

In an effort to diminish the overall cost of the project, all of the demolition work has been completed by the Oregon Street Department. A part of the renovations requires the installation of two electronic card readers to tie into the city's existing card reader system with Asset Protection Corporation (APC). In addition to the Lakeside quote of $49,500, APC's quote was $7,925. Only one quote was sought for the card reader work, as the card readers have to tie into the current card reader system in the City of Oregon. It brings the overall total for the project to $57,425.

Councilman Steve Hornyak asked about the expense of the project.

"We did appropriate funding for this in the budget. Did the scope of work change?" asked Hornyak, referring to the wide difference in quotes from the Buehrer Group and Lakeside.

"It did not," said Begin. "The original quote that we got was for over $200,000 from the Buehrer Group for the same type of repairs. When we went through the budget process last year, it was the only quote we had. We knew if we were going to do it cheaper, we would have to accommodate and do less with the space. When we went with Lakeside and got other quotes from other companies, Lakeside came in with something very similar to what we wanted to do in that original quote. So that's why there's a price difference."

Also at the meeting, council:

- Accepted a purchase order from BP-Husky Refining, LLC, to provide traffic control services through the Oregon Police Division.

BP-Husky Refining LLC plans to use Oregon Police Officers for traffic control services for one of their projects.

The City of Oregon Police Division will be reimbursed for direct costs.

"They're doing a large shut down and retooling that will be going on until at least June," said Begin. "It requires multiple of-dence in this case demonstrated more than speed. Eyewitness testimony and data recovered from the vehicle confirmed that appellant drove his truck without regard for the circumstances. He entered a stretch of slowed and stopped traffic with a heavy load and with his cruise control engaged, and only attempted to slow in the seconds preceding the crash. Even if the jury believed the appellant's claim that he never perceived the circumstances, the jury could have considered appellant's extreme inattention, while operating a truck with the mass and momentum of a 70,000 lb. load at a high rate of speed, as exhibiting 'heedless indifference to the consequences' and disregarding 'a substantial and unjustifiable risk,' considering the circumstances."

After the common pleas court jury reached a verdict but before the court held a sentencing hearing, Nastal filed a motion for acquittal, arguing a lack of evidence of reckless conduct to support the convictions for vehicular assault. He contended the jury was inconsistent in finding no reckless conduct in the three misdemeanor charges but finding the same conduct reckless as to the felony charges.

The court denied the motion.

Turnpike commission OKs $233 million in improvements

By Press Staff Writer

Several projects in the local stretch of the Ohio Turnpike are included in the $233 million capital budget for 2022 approved last week by the Ohio Turnpike and Infrastructure Commission.

The projects include:

-A new weigh-in motion system at a milepost location in Ottawa County.

-In addition to new toll plazas on the mainline, Toll Plaza 64 in Wood County will be expanded with the construction of concrete toll islands, toll booths and canopies to relieve traffic congestion.

-Twenty interchanges, from Toll Plaza 52 to Toll Plaza 209 (Lucas, Wood, Sandusky, Erie, Lorain, Cuyahoga, Summit, Portage, and Trumbull counties), will be upgraded with new tolling equipment, including the installation of new toll payment machines, cameras, and computer cabinets.

-Weigh-in motion systems, including pavement motion sensors to weigh trucks travelling at highway speeds and detect overweight vehicles, will be installed at milepost 79.8 in Ottawa County and 141.1 in Lorain County.

The commission also approved four resurfacing projects to replace asphalt, upgrade guardrails and other road work.

All three lanes and shoulders from milepost 73.95 to 80.5 in Wood, Ottawa, and Sandusky counties will be included in one project that is scheduled to start this month and be completed in October.

The Shelly Co. is the contractor for the project, which has an estimated cost of $14.1 million.

Farzan Ahmed, executive director of the turnpike commission, said with the start of the nine-month construction season, motorists should be cautious when driving around work zones.

There were 1,443 vehicle crashes in work zones on the turnpike from 2016-2020 – an average of 289 crashes each year, according to the Ohio Department of Public Safety.

“Speeding in work zones is a primary cause of crashes,” Ahmed said. “The Highway Patrol will be conducting speed enforcement, including aerial enforcement, in work zones...during the construction season.”

cers per day in the morning and evening for traffic control services. This is a purchase order for reimbursement for those officers to be out there as a special detail."

Entered into an amended agreement with Toledo Refining Company, LLC, to provide traffic control services through the Oregon Police Division on an as-needed basis, and reimbursed.

Toledo Refining Company, LLC, wants to use Oregon police officers for traffic control services at and around their property.

The Oregon Police Division will be reimbursed for direct costs based on actual activity completed.

"This is pretty much the same as with BP," said Begin. "But it's for Toledo Refining Company. We have no set timeline to do any traffic control details with them. This is a three year contract with wage increases over those three years to provide traffic control services and safety services in and around Toledo Refining."

Approved a purchase order to Atlantic Emergency Solutions, Findlay, to provide maintenance and repair services for fire engines and tower ladders. Atlantic Emergency Solutions specializes in all areas of repair for Pierce fire engines and tower ladders, and is needed when the repairs require service outside of the scope of practice of the local vendor. Atlantic Emergency Solutions is the sole vendor in the area that can perform all repairs

"The vast majority of our trucks are manufactured by Pierce," said Fire Chief Denny Hartman. "It's for repairs that are manufacturer-specific that can be handled locally."

Council President Tim Zale said he was concerned the ordinance didn't have a cost attached to it.

"Is there a threshold of expense that has to be approved by council?" asked Zale. "Because of the nature of the contract" said City Administrator Mike Beazley, "we wanted to get this approved so they can go out and get that work done. Ultimately, it has to be within the budget. If it's outside of that, we'll come back and get council's approval."

Issued a purchase order to DMC Technology Group Inc., Toledo, for the purchase of a license for Microsoft 365 Commerce for $29,754 to be used for the City of Oregon and Oregon Municipal Court. The current licenses are on a month-to-month license agreement.

Ottawa County: Business survey is underway

Such efforts can show the community's appreciation for business contributions and enable local leadership to identify economic development strategies...

According to the Business Retention and Expansion Program at The Ohio State University Extension, existing businesses create 60-80 percent of new jobs.

To foster an environment in which local companies can flourish, the Oak Harbor Chamber of Commerce and Ottawa County Improvement Corp. are conducting a survey of businesses, asking them to rate the county's infrastructure, taxes, public services and other features.

The survey is the first step in the chamber of commerce and improvement corporation implementing a retention and expansion program and forming an on-going economic development plan.

The survey asks respondents if they believe the cost of doing business in the county is acceptable, low or high for rent expenses, taxes, environmental regulations, utility and permit costs, and health care insurance and workers compensation.

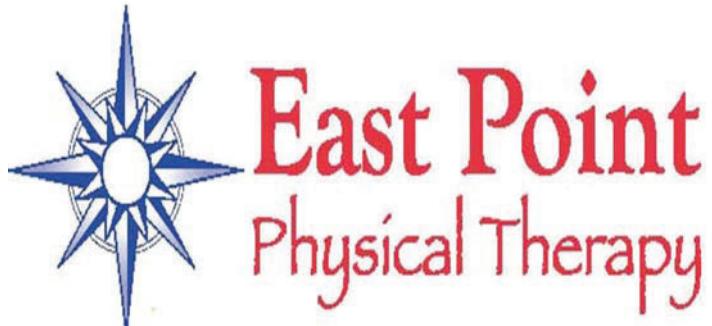

The survey also asks them to rate roads, water and sewer service, telecom and high speed access, public transportation, fire and police service, school systems, road repairs, air service, zoning processes and other services.

In the survey, business owners will be able to list their needs and concerns that could be addressed by local government or local private entities and to cite their reasons for locating or keeping their businesses in the county.

"A BRE program involves a dialogue with local businesses to better understand their issues and concerns. Such efforts can show the community's appreciation for business contributions and enable local leadership to identify economic development strategies informed by local business as well as inform the community at large about individual and community-wide business concerns," the OSU community development website says.

Legislature considers expanding medical marijuana program

By Larry Limpf
News Editor
news@presspublications.com

The list of conditions qualifying for medical marijuana use would be significantly expanded if a bill pending in the Ohio legislature becomes law.

Senator Steve Huffman, the bill's sponsor, said it's time to "make some improvements to the program" in his testimony to the House Government Oversight Committee.

According to Sen. Huffman, "The bill would expand the list of qualifying conditions for medical marijuana to include: autism spectrum disorder, arthritis, migraines, terminal illness and treatment of any other medical condition determined by a licensed physician."

"The bill would also expand the methods medical marijuana may be dispensed to include: pills, capsules, suppositories, oral pouches, oral strips, oral or topical sprays, salves, lotions, and inhalation. It will still prohibit a user from smoking it or home growing it on their own."

He was also a sponsor of the bill authorizing the use of medical marijuana in the state five years ago. That bill largely placed the state's medical marijuana program under regulatory authority of both the State Board of Pharmacy and Department of Commerce.

The pharmacy board was charged with registering patients and caregivers and licensing retail dispensaries while the commerce department issued licenses to medical marijuana cultivators, processors, and testing labs and the medical board issued certificates to physicians.

"Today, 216,471 patients have become registered for medical marijuana and only 131,536 have both an active registration and an active recommendation. Six hundred and thirty-seven physicians have been granted certificates to recommend. Medical marijuana also costs Ohio patients about $310 an ounce, which is much higher than any other surrounding state. This legislation aims to guide the program in a way that is business friendly and create greater access for patients at a lower cost," Sen. Huffman told the committee.

The bill would move regulation of dispensaries from the pharmacy board to the commerce department's newly created Division of Marijuana Control.

"Moving the program essentially under the supervision of the Department of Commerce should simplify the compliance process for businesses within the industry," he said. "The Board of Pharmacy would still be responsible for tracking medical marijuana in the Ohio Automated Rx Reporting System. The State Medical Board would continue to issue certifications to recommend to physicians and retain the ability to add qualifying medical conditions to the program."

Louis Tobin, executive director of the Ohio Prosecuting Attorneys Association, said his organization is opposed to removing oversight from the pharmacy board.

"Marijuana remains a Schedule 1 controlled substance and should therefore remain subject to oversight by the State Board of Pharmacy. When the original medical marijuana legislation was enacted in 2016 the legislation was promoted to our association as a good idea because it would be carefully and tightly regulated. Now, Senate Bill 261 would undo, at least partially, that regulation," he told the committee.

He said the bill is "simply another step toward recreational use marijuana."

The bill has already passed in the Senate. The House committee has held three hearings on the bill.

Sen. Huffman said 57 provisional licensees have received their certificate of operation for a dispensary, meaning there are currently 6,000 registered patients for every dispensary in the state. The bill would permit the Division of Marijuana Control to reach a ratio of at least one retail dispensary per 1,000 registered patients up to the first 300,000 patients and on an as-needed basis after that – to be evaluated once every two years.

The Division of Marijuana Control would also be responsible for determining which criminal offenses would no longer disqualify an applicant from holding a retail dispensary license if the applicant was convicted or pled guilty to an offense more than five years prior to filing an application.

Free weather safety seminar planned

The public is invited to attend a free weather safety seminar sponsored by the Lake Township Police Department, in conjunction with its Neighborhood Watch program.

The event is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, April 13 at the Lake Township Hall, 27975 Cummings Rd., Millbury.

WTVG chief meteorologist Jay Berschback will present the hourlong program, which will include a question-and-answer session.

Police Chief Mark Hummer noted this year's program will be a restart of an annual event that was suspended during the COVID-19 pandemic.

"Ever since we initiated the Neighborhood Watch program, we have offered this training in the springtime," Hummer said. "Things have changed over the last 12 years since the deadly tornado struck the township in June 2010, and we want our area residents to have the most up-to-date information on tornado and severe storm safety."

The June 2010 EF4 tornado killed seven people and caused heavy property damage in Lake Township. It touched down first in Moline before touching down again in Millbury. Along the way, it heavily damaged the township police department building and Lake High School.

"People who lived in this area at that time are keenly aware of how dangerous storms can be," Hummer said. "We want our residents to be as safe as they can be, so we offer this seminar before the peak of the storm season."

Pre-registration is required. For more info, call Ron Craig, the police department's community policing officer and crime prevention officer, at 419-481-6354.

Canner dial gauge testing

As the food preservation season approaches, those who use pressure canner dial gauges are reminded that gauges should be checked each year to ensure accuracy for food safety.

Katie Schlagheck, an Ohio State University family and consumer sciences educator, is conducting four special pressure canner testing dates.

Testing will be available April 14 and May 24 from 10 a.m.-5:30 p.m. at the Sandusky County OSU Extension office, 2000 Countryside Dr., Fremont; and April 15 and June 1 from 10 a.m.-5:30 p.m. at the Ottawa County OSU Extension office, 240 W Lake St., Oak Harbor.

The cost is $5 per gauge tested. The process will take about 10 minutes. Participants need to bring the dial gauge and may bring the entire canner if desired.

Those who cannot make any of the dates may call 419-898-3631 in Ottawa County or 419-334-6340 in Sandusky County or drop off at gauges either location during business hours for testing.

New sign in Elmore

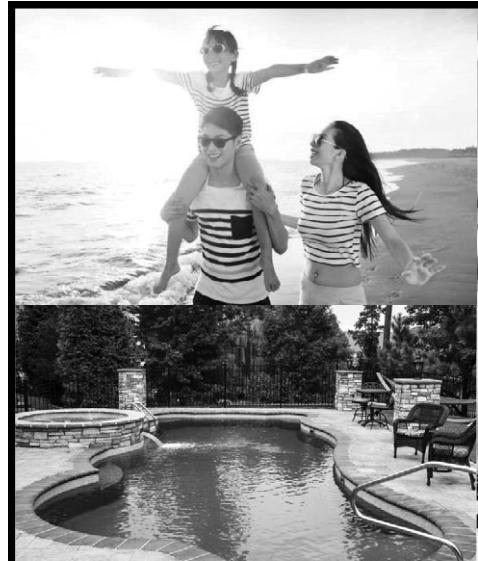

The Elmore Kiwanis Club has installed a new electronic community message sign on the corner of Toledo and Rice streets.

The new sign replaces an older letter board that needed letters placed manually with a long handled suction cup.

Volunteers fabricated an aluminum frame to stabilize the sign and village employees took down the old sign, which was given to the Elmore Historical Society, and attached the new sign and frame to the pole while connecting the electricity.

Alvin Roepke, of Vision Quest, fashioned the "Elmore Kiwanis Club" with the International Kiwanis logo above the sign.

The new sign will also be a message board for community events. Sign requests can be made in writing at the Harris-Elmore Public Library where policy guidelines are available.

If life is good why are so many struggling?

Life is a journey that is comprised of a variety of circumstances, situations, and experiences. We all experience a mix of joy and sorrow, elation and disappointment, the expected and unexpected, and good and bad.

In spite of the obstacles, bumps, and detours, the journey is a good one. You have awesome potential. Within you is the capacity to successfully navigate throughout your journey.

You have the ability to improve and grow throughout your life. You can learn from your mistakes, change course as needed and liberate yourself from your past. You are free to choose your thoughts and determine the habits you develop.

Life is good because you have the freedom to get whatever you want from it. There are no limitations imposed on you. If you are not happy with your situation, you can change it. If you feel you are on the wrong track, you can alter directions. When you find your calling, you can focus your energy and efforts on it.

Life is good because we have a gift of abundance. There is no shortage of food, shelter, and clothing. Many amenities are readily available. You have more choices and options than at any other time in history.

But if life is so good, why do some people struggle? One reason is that we get spoiled. We have a continual appetite for more without fully appreciating what we

by Bryan Golden

already have. We get jealous of others and compare ourselves to some external standard.

Another reason is the affliction of negative thinking. Believing that life is bad, there are no opportunities, there is never enough, and that there are limitations, create a self-fulfilling prophecy. If you don't see potential, there is no chance of realizing it.

Movies, TV, newspapers, and magazines depict fantasy lifestyles, that when compared to our own lives, can cause people to feel inadequate or unfulfilled. When this happens, our focus shifts from how much we really have to a perception of lack when compared to fantasy portrayed as reality.

There is always room for personal growth and improvement. Yet many people focus on external acquisitions as a way to gauge the quality of life. This is a real shame because it causes people to live a life of dissatisfaction rather than being thankful for how good their life actually is.

Every day is a good day. If you doubt this, try skipping a one. Some days have more challenges than others. All challenges have solutions, and all problems fade with time. No one's life is perfect but everyone has the freedom to overcome obstacles.

There are many world events that cause stress and concern. Yet life is still good. If you don't think life is good, you will feel depressed. In a depressed state of mind, your ability to achieve your goals and solve problems is greatly diminished. Living in a negative state for an extended period of time creates a downward spiral that builds its own momentum. So a belief in the goodness of life provides you with an abundance of advantages.

Help yourself realize the good in your life by helping others to find the good in their lives. One of the best ways to motivate yourself is by giving someone else a mental boost. When you help another person to feel happy you can't help but feel happy yourself.

I've just scratched the surface in mentioning the basics that make life good. There's no doubt that you can find a long list of good things in your situation. Focus on the good and you charge your batteries. Focus on the negative and you deplete your energy and taint your outlook.

Make an inventory of all that is good in your life. Often people are surprised by how much richer they are than they realized. Review your inventory frequently to remind yourself of the good you have.

Crack down on oligarchs, on U.S. tax havens

By Chuck Collins

As part of the sanctions against Russia for its invasion of Ukraine, the United States and its European partners are cracking down on Russian oligarchs. They're freezing assets and tracking the yachts, private jets, and luxury real estate holdings of these Russian billionaires.

"I say to the Russian oligarchs and the corrupt leaders who bilked billions of dollars off this violent regime: no more," Biden said in his State of the Union address. "We are coming for your ill-begotten gains."

Targeting Russia's elites, who have stolen trillions from their own people, is an important strategy to pressure Russian President Vladimir Putin, who himself may be among the wealthiest people on the planet.

But the U.S. faces a major obstacle in this effort: Our own country has become a major destination tax haven for criminal and oligarch wealth from around the world and not just Russians.

While European Union countries have been increasing transparency and cracking down on kleptocratic capital, the United States is a laggard. As the Pandora Papers disclosed last year, the U.S. has become a weak link in the fight against global corruption.

Guest Editorial

Delaware, the state President Biden represented in the Senate for 36 years, is the premiere venue for anonymous limited liability companies that don't have to disclose who their real beneficial owners are, even to law enforcement. And South Dakota is the home for billionaires creating dynasty trusts, where they can park wealth outside the reach of tax authorities for generations.

Even U.S. charities, as my IPS colleague Helen Flannery wrote recently, have received billions from Russian oligarchs, helping to sanitize their reputations.

Global wealth is flooding into the United States, especially in luxury real estate. In February, the New York Post did an expose on the luxury real estate holdings of Russian oligarchs in the Big Apple. But oligarchs hide their wealth in real estate all over the country, as well as art, cryptocurrency, and jewelry.

This vast wealth-hiding apparatus would not exist without an enormous enabling class of lawyers, accountants, and wealth managers. These "wealth defense industry" professionals are the agents of inequality, the facilitators of the wealth disappearing act. This class of professionals uses their considerable political clout to block reforms.

The first step in fixing the hidden wealth system is ownership transparency requiring the disclosure of beneficial ownership in real estate, trusts, and companies and corporations.

But we should also shine a spotlight on the wealth defense industry. Days after the release of the Pandora Papers, U.S. lawmakers introduced the ENABLERS Act, which would require such attorneys, wealth managers, real estate professionals, and art dealers to report suspicious activity. The attention on Russian oligarchs has revived interest in this legislation.

If the U.S. wants to clamp down on Russian oligarchs, the first step is to get our own house in order.

Power grab by state legislature?

To the editor: Our country was founded on the principles of opportunity, individual freedom and less government control. The ideals of less government and free markets have been successful strategies in American competitiveness for more than 200 years.

Yet Ohio lawmakers are considering legislation – Ohio House Bill 235, that could tip the scales, choose winners and losers and allow for additional government control.

House Bill 235 would write into law specific hiring practices for privately-owned oil refineries, limiting who they can hire by mandating ratios of apprentice-trained employees. Even more concerning, it would establish a precedent in law to allow for future government control and overreach in any industry. No matter if it is a refinery or a lemonade stand, the government has no business mandating private employers hire certain employees in specified quotas. Today it is refineries, but tomorrow it could be any other industry if we let House Bill 235 pass.

Adding insult to injury, HB 235 hides a government power-grab behind the guise of improved safety and worker training. In reality, refineries are already highly regulated for safety at the local, state and federal levels. In 2020, the Ohio injury and illness incidence rates for petroleum and coal products manufacturing was 5th lowest of all manufacturing industries at only 1.4 cases per 100 full time workers, according to the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics.

In contrast, food manufacturing in Ohio more than doubled that rate at 3.5 cases per 100 and the forging and stamping sector ranked at 5 cases per 100 employees, which is triple the rate found in the fuel refining sector. It is abundantly clear that safety is merely a false pretense for forced unionization in this bill.

HB 235 is essentially a backdoor attempt at forced unionization, creating government-mandated quotas of employees who must have attended approved apprenticeship programs, at a time when Ohio faces crippling workforce shortages.

According to Apprentice Ohio, a publicly funded council that tracks apprenticeships in Ohio, there were 12,932 active construction apprentices in Ohio as of February of this year and 9,787 of those were union based, a 76 percent rate translates into a protected-status of more than three-quarters of the job opportunities. While the bill claims to prioritize worker safety and education, it in fact favors pro-union interests more than traditional tradesmanship, on-the-job experience and practical training.

Quotas, bureaucracy and burdensome compliance costs do nothing to improve worker safety and ultimately translate to higher prices. As gas prices are increasing, additional mandates will cost all of us at the pump.

The indirect costs of HB 235 hinder free enterprise, limit energy independence and punish private business, while giving a free pass to unions and increasing bureaucracy. We urge the legislature to say no to more government mandates, say no to forced unionization and vote no on House Bill 235.

By Steve Stivers, President and CEO of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce and Pat Tiberi, President and CEO of the Ohio Business Roundtable.

Editor's note: House Bill 235 has had four hearings before the House Commerce and Labor Committee. An analysis of the bill, known as the High Hazard Training Certification Act, is available on the committee's website.

Time for prepping

By Thomas Knapp

"President Joe Biden and other leaders of the world's major industrialized democracies pledged action on March 24 to address food shortages caused by Russia's war on Ukraine," Politico reports.

Biden says food shortages "are going to be real," although he seems to see them as an opportunity to increase U.S. grain production and food exports rather than a real threat to Americans' own well-being.

After a year of continuing his predecessor's "trade war" policies, Biden seems to be getting some free trade religion, which is nice, but he may be under-estimating the scope of the problem.

The Russian invasion of Ukraine and the US/EU/NATO sanctions response, doesn't just up-end the global supply of grain crops (Russia and Ukraine are both top exporters of wheat) and other foods.

As Reuters reports, it also affects the global supply of the fertilizers that power farming elsewhere. Russia is the world's top fertilizer exporter, followed by China, a top "trade war" target of the last few years.

What does this mean for Americans? Probably not starvation in the streets, but food prices are going to keep soaring, probably even more so than they have the last couple of years. More of our incomes will go to putting food on the table, and less to other things. We're getting, in a word, poorer.

If you had the foresight to go full "prepper" years ago, a basement full of freeze-dried meals, a large garden and annual canning operation, etc., good on you. Unless things escalate we're probably not looking at the apocalypse, but you've been vindicated nonetheless.

As for the rest of us, at least a little "prepping" is definitely in order. It's not too late to start stocking up on canned food before the next big price increase. And, if you have a yard or access to a community gardening space, to put some food in the ground for harvest later this year.

Personally, I've had gardening ambitions for years - I spent part of my childhood on a subsistence farm and enjoyed it - but until last week I limited myself to a little raised bed affair with some salad and stir fry items.

This week I invested in a tiller and an assortment of "heirloom" seeds, with the expectation of getting to work on a much larger garden next week. I'm fortunate to live on a full acre in northern Florida, where I can reasonably expect to get two growing seasons in this year.

If worse comes to worst, doubling up on the cans in your pantry and growing a little romaine for Caesar salads won't save your life. But if not, they'll save you some much-needed money in the harder days to come.

Museum exhibit celebrates heritage of Persian culture

The Toledo Museum of Art (TMA) is offering an expansive exhibition this spring and summer of more than 100 objects drawn from one of the most significant private collections of Persian art.

"Bestowing Beauty: Masterpieces from Persian Lands," which opens Saturday, April 23, showcases the artistic inventiveness of Persian culture across different media, featuring a broad array of textiles, ceramics, metalwork, lacquer, paintings, jewelry and manuscripts from the Hossein Afshar Collection. The exhibit will run through Sunday, July 17.

Woven throughout the stories of these extraordinary objects are experiences, ideas and emotions shared by cultures across the globe. By evoking universal themes of love, loss, conflict and spirituality, the exhibition brings to life the rich heritage and enduring beauty of Persian art.

"Celebrating the cultural heritage of Iran at the Toledo Museum of Art with 'Bestowing Beauty' represents a rare opportunity for our audiences to experience the grandeur and beauty of these objects in person," said Diane Wright, TMA's senior curator of glass and contemporary craft.

The visual and literary arts have held a privileged place in Iranian civilization for centuries. The Hossein Afshar Collection, which embraces a diverse range of treasures from the eve of Islam's arrival in the seventh century to the end of the 19th century, was assembled to preserve and share Persian art and culture today and for future generations. The exhibition is divided into six sections:

- "Banquets and Battles" features the exuberance of palace feasting and fighting, quintessential aspects of Persian kingship and perennially popular subjects in Persian art and literature. The exhibition also includes lavishly decorated serving vessels and utensils fashioned from metals and ceramic.

- "Faith and Piety" explores how, after the advent of Islam, words from the Qur'an became paramount as a mode of expression. Exquisitely penned and magnificently illuminated Qur'an manuscripts were produced across the Islamic world.

- "Art of the Word," delves into the different developments, styles and uses of calligraphy, enhancing the aesthetic form and rhythmic beauty of lettering.

- In Persian literature, love finds expression as a profound human connection and metaphor for a yearning for unity with the divine. "Love and Longing" traces how calligraphers and painters brought to life the rich Persian literature.

- "Kingship and Authority" explores the kingly ideal, which figures prominently in Persian visual and literary culture. In addition to the Shahnameh – the masterpiece that reflects the legends and virtues of Persian dynasties – court painters in the 19th century captured portraits of royalty and the ruling elite.

- The concluding section, "Earth and Nature," examines the manifestations of flora and fauna that abound in the art of Iran. Its people were among the earliest civilizations to cultivate gardens. The garden's symbolism – of paradise, of the promise of spring, of renewal – permeated Persian culture and can be seen in the exhibition through glorious depictions of lions, falcons, nightingales, roses and fruit.

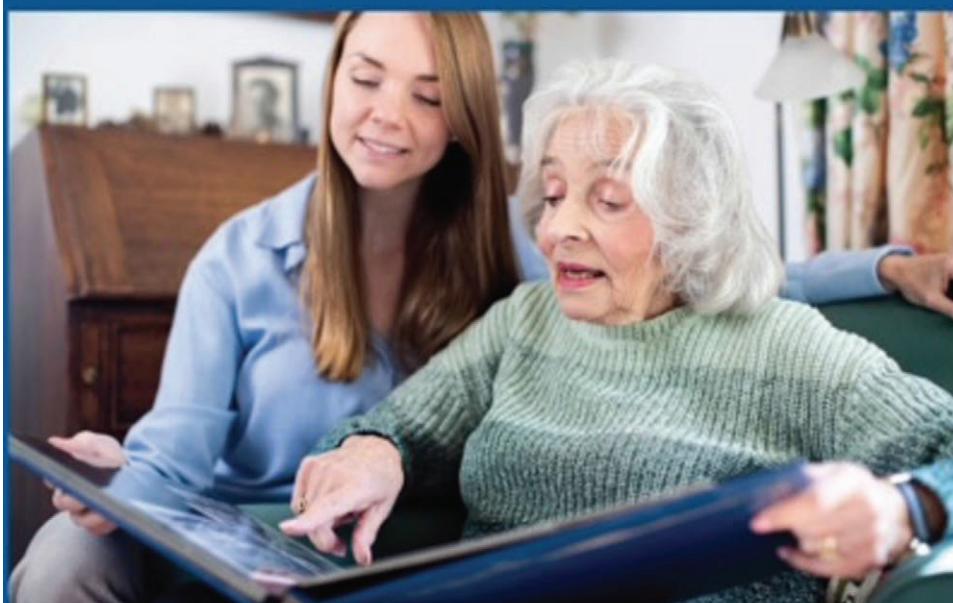

"Bestowing Beauty: Masterpieces from Persian Lands" is organized by the Museum of Fine Arts, Houston. It is sponsored locally by season sponsor ProMedica and presenting sponsors Susan and Tom Palmer, with additional support from Taylor Cadillac, KeyBank, the Ohio Arts Council, and Shumaker Loop.

The Toledo Museum of Art is located at 2445 Monroe St. at Scottwood Ave. Admission is free, but visitors are required to register at the Information Desks.

The Museum is open Wednesdays, Thursdays and Sundays from 11 a.m.-5 p.m., and 11 a.m.-8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays and is closed on Mondays and Tuesdays and all major holidays.

Enjoy a good time monkeying around in Costa Rica

Costa Rica is a howling good time, even if there's no monkeying around.

Love them or not, howler monkeys are an integral part of the natural scene in Costa Rica. These active and vocal mammals stay high in the treetops so they're not always easy to see but, if they're talking, there's no mistaking their presence. Howlers are the loudest mammal on earth, capable of ear-splitting calls as they move through the forest like marauders.

Howler monkeys represent just one of more species than can be counted in this small, but richly endowed Central American country, home to stunning tropical scenery and an incredible variety of colorful flora and fauna.

"I love the biodiversity of my beautiful country," said Eduardo Sanchez, an extraordinary naturalist and wilderness guide associated with Ylang Ylang Beach Resort, one of Costa Rica's best.

It is a nature lover's paradise; likewise for anglers, adventurers, beach lovers, and romantics. The scenery is stunning, the topography dramatic, the wildlife viewing is unmatched.

"We have five to seven percent of all the species on earth," Eduardo said. "Hundreds of those species are endemic to Costa Rica."

Birders will find paradise in Costa Rica, especially this time of year, when birds are in their breeding plumage, including many that have or will soon head north to the United States to nest. Others, often with colorful tropical names to match their stunning colors, call Costa Rica their home year-round. Count among those scarlet macaws, parrots, mot motts, trogons, and quetzals.

Like any destination, would-be visitors need to decide on priorities and match those desires with choices. All-inclusive modern resorts are readily available, though often are in high demand, so advance arrangements are important. There are welcoming coastal communities on both the Caribbean on the east and the

by Art Weber

he characterizes as tropical dry forest that's lush through the rainy season and enters a dry season from December through April. As the dry season wears on, the forest can be crackle-dry and subject to extensive wildfires.

Excellent resorts like Ylang Ylang, near the quintessentially Costa Rican fishing town of Montezuma, with its own offering of tourist-friendly markets, restaurants, and tour operators, leave visitors – friends as you'll be called – wanting for virtually nothing.

At Ylang Ylang, a name taken from the flowering tree that contributes to the scent for Chanel No 5, the accommodations are extraordinary, as is the food which is Pacific, and mountains and the cloud forest in between.

"I'm booked solid, working every day for the next year," Eduardo said. The high demand comes on the heels of two years of COVID isolation when he had no work.

His home and the destinations he uses for his tours are on the Pacific coast, an area served in a shaded seaside open air setting. The seaside setting puts cottages and rooms within a few steps of a beautiful ocean beach and surf that rolls in close enough to lull you to sleep at night. Resort staff is extraordinarily friendly, competent, and attentive.

Costa Rican precautions regarding COVID are thorough and reassuring. When planning a trip, be sure you've fully researched travel restrictions and requirements, including COVID testing before returning home.

Volunteers needed

Entering its fifth year, the Bass Pro Shops' 2022 Rossford Walleye Roundup is scheduled for April 15-16.

The event is open to two-person teams. Payouts are based on the number of entries and are anticipated to return an estimated $20,000 back to the winning teams.

Last year, 53 anglers from Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Pennsylvania, New York and Wisconsin participated. Due to the growth in last year's tournament, the Rossford Convention & Visitors Bureau (RCVB) is seeking volunteers to help with the 2022 tournament.

“As the number of teams grows, we need more people to fill critical roles such as traffic control, checking live wells on the boats, dock patrol, guiding fisherman to the lineup for the weigh-in, and running the catch up to the stage,” said Beth Genson, director of the Rossford CVB.

Tournament volunteers will be working outside for two- to three-hour shifts, depending on the assignment. About 25 volunteers are needed for each of the two days.

“We need people starting at Cullen Park in Point Place for the launch in the morning, through the weigh-ins at our store at 4 p.m. both afternoons,” said Bill Sisty, boat room manager at Bass Pro Shops.

For more details and online registration for both volunteers and fishing teams, visit RossfordWalleyeRoundup.com.

For questions, contact Genson at bethgenson@visitrossfordohio.com. Tournament volunteers will be required to attend a volunteer meeting and pizza party Wednesday, April 13 at 6 p.m. at Bass Pro Shops to confirm their assignments and go over details of the event.

"Mustering Memory"

Hayes Presidential special exhibit to salute Civil War

For 160 years, the United States has been uncertain with how best to remember the Civil War.

Each generation has handled the war's legacy in its own way, often reflecting its own values and experiences in doing so.

While the debate will continue on how this difficult subject should be remembered, the latest special exhibit at the Hayes Presidential Library & Museums in Fremont will provide the often-overlooked history of how people have chosen and still choose to remember the Civil War.

"Mustering Memory: 160 Years of Saluting the Civil War" opens to the public on Thursday, April 14.

From the aged veterans who walked on the fields of Gettysburg for its 50th anniversary in 1913 to modern enthusiasts who use their vacation time reliving famous battles or scouring Civil War antique shows, this exhibit offers context on where Civil War memory has been and insights for those interested in engaging with it today.

"How we remember the Civil War has been and continues to be a tough subject. It deals with issues of race and patriotism, as well as history and heritage," said Kevin Moore, curator of artifacts at Hayes Presidential. "Our hope is that visitors to 'Mustering Memory' will leave with a better grasp of how past generations, beginning with the Civil War veterans themselves, have tried to understand and commemorate this pivotal event."

Artifacts that will be on display include Civil War medals from President Rutherford B. Hayes and First Lady Lucy Hayes, as well as medals from other Civil War veterans. Lucy Hayes' medal, from the Women's Relief Corps, honored her for her work in tending to wounded soldiers, mending their uniforms and offering other support.

"Mustering Memory" will include items from President Hayes, including his work as president of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States, an organization that began as a group for Union Civil War veterans. It will feature Civil War manuscripts and artifacts from Hayes Presidential's collections.

The exhibit also will share information about Civil War reenacting and Civil War artifact and memorabilia collecting.

"People who are into history continue to remember the Civil War in a number of different ways, many of which can be both educational and a lot of fun," Moore said. "We want to make visitors aware of what activities exist today and point them to resources in case they want to get involved."

"Mustering Memory" will be open during regular museum hours, which are available at rbhayes.org. Members are admitted for free. For non-members, access to the exhibit is included with regular admission.

The Hayes Presidential Library & Museums is America's first presidential library and the forerunner for the federal presidential library system. It is located at Spiegel Grove at the corner of Hayes and Buckland avenues, Fremont.
