Appeal filed in Toledo, Oregon income tax case

By Larry Limpf

News Editor

news@presspublications.com

An Ohio policy organization is appealing its court case challenging the authority of cities to collect municipal income taxes from non-residents who didn't work within those cities due to the pandemic.

The appeal filed by the Buckeye Institute with the Ohio Sixth District Court of Appeals contends the cities of Toledo and Oregon violated the Ohio constitution when they collected income taxes from three plaintiffs who worked from home – outside of Toledo and Oregon – but were required to pay municipal income taxes to those communities.

The Buckeye Institute filed the lawsuit on behalf of Joel and Summer Curcio of Springfield Township and Chris Ackerman of Walbridge. Joel Curcio and Ackerman were employed at a refinery in Oregon and Summer Curcio was employed at a social services agency in Toledo.

"Ohio law does not allow cities to take income taxes from workers based upon 'let's pretend' you performed work in a different city than you actually did," said Jay Carson, senior litigator for the institute. "The Buckeye Institute believes the Ohio Supreme Court's directive – that cities can only tax non-residents on work that is performed within the taxing city's limits – has been misapplied and that Ohio's emergency-based local income tax system is not only unfair to workers, it violates the due process requirements of the U.S. and Ohio constitutions."

The case was filed in March 2021 in Lucas County Common Pleas Court but was dismissed in favor of the cities in December.

To attempt to stabilize revenues for municipalities during the pandemic, the state legislature in March 2020 approved House Bill 197 that allowed cities to continue collecting income taxes from workers even if they worked remotely in a different city instead of in the city where the employer is located.

Oregon looks to TARTA for public transportation

By Kelly J. Kaczala

Press News Editor

kkaczala@presspublications.com

At a recent Oregon City Council meeting, City Administrator Mike Beazley said he hopes to see the Toledo Area Regional Transit Authority (TARTA) establish bus stops in the city to improve transportation to local businesses as well as improve the public's access to the hospitals.

Beazley was responding to a question by City Councilman Paul Drake III who had heard about a recent TARTA meeting in which there was discussion about scheduling a possible stop at Walmart on Navarre Avenue.

"I wonder how much input the city will have in who determines it?" asked Drake. "I'd like to see stops. I think it would be good if one was close to the hospitals. It could help a lot of people out."

Particularly with the rising costs of gas, it would help seniors and those with special needs to have access to affordable transportation.

"Hopefully, it's more than one stop. I have talked to some business owners in the middle of Navarre, between Coy and Wheeling, and I know they seemed pretty happy to have a possible stop there with all the restaurants. I was just curious. I told them I would ask," said Drake.

Beazley said he was expecting to meet

I'd like to see stops. I think it would be good if one was close to the hospitals. It could help a lot of people out.

soon with the new director of TARTA to discuss the matter.

Benefits

"Among the biggest benefits of it, and obviously, we know there's divided opinion of it in Oregon, will be the special TARPS service that people with disabilities could call," said Beazley. "That will be going on across the board. I expect very much to have the hospital served and the major corridor served as well. Among the reasons some in Oregon didn't think it was very practical to add bus service is we're spread out. We're 28 square miles. We're hard to serve. I'm certain, at the end of the day, they'll end up with some routes that will make some sense. They're going through that process now and taking a look at it. Mentioning a stop at a committee meeting doesn't mean they're not looking at other stops."

He added that it was ultimately TARTA's decision.

Workforce

"TARTA gets to decide. It's their board and service. They want to be responsive to where they think the market wants to go. I know in my conversations with our largest employers, they're interested in those types of services, especially the hospitals. Any place where they are trying to get a workforce to work, people are interested in that. So we'll talk about that as we go. They'll be making decisions in the coming weeks as they try to shape their service," said Beazley.

TARTA serves the communities of Maumee, Ottawa Hills, Rossford, Sylvania, Sylvania Township, Toledo, and Waterville. It has never been in Oregon, despite previous attempts to serve the community. In 2009, TARTA presented plans at a special public meeting in Oregon, but it never got off the ground.

In 2010, Mayor Mike Seferian was against TARTA's proposed .5 percent sales tax to replace property taxes to fund public

OCIC holds annual awards program

The Ottawa County Improvement Corporation held its annual Business and Industry Awards at the Liberty Aviation Museum on March 9.

Dan Halle, founder of Catawba Island's Coastal Swing Golf & Bar, was named Entrepreneur of the Year. His business gives players the opportunity to play the game year-round with GOLFZON simulators that offer more than 200 courses around the world. The business also features an indoor lounge area, a fireplace, practice putting green, multiple televisions and an outdoor patio with a fire pit.

In November 2021, a second location opened in Sandusky.

Lake Erie Shores & Islands was awarded the Economic Development Partner Award. Last year brought organizational accomplishments, including a new strategic plan and destination branding initiative. Both initiatives involved input from a wide spectrum of stakeholders along with several months of work from the board and staff teams.

The Bill Mack Business Leader Award was presented to Gail McWatters, owner of Makers on Main in Genoa. When the storefront boutique opened in 2019, it was filled with her own handmade products. The shop now features a mix of handmade work from a variety of local artists, who she calls "makers." Gail has welcomed area food trucks and others to operate outside her business to encourage residents and visitors to shop downtown. Gail has given more than 40 "makers" the opportunity to sell their handmade products.

Spa Catawba was named Business of the Year. Originally located in Port Clinton's Knoll Crest Shopping Center, Spa Catawba's new building opened in May 2021. Spa Catawba has created 16 new jobs and invested $1.5 million into the existing property and $175,000 in equipment. Spa Catawba has plans for more wellness expansions in 2023 and 2024.

The spa offers a full schedule of yoga classes, wellness workshops, and they have also expanded their café offerings.

The OCIC Volunteer of the Year Award was presented to Jim and Heather Stouffer of the Catawba Island Club. They serve on several boards in the area that work to help improve Ottawa County and the region.

OCIC Executive Director Chris Singerling introduced the recently completed OCIC Strategic Plan.

"This OCIC leadership is pleased with the holistic approach taken to create this plan and the direction in which we are headed," stated Singerling. "However, efforts like this are only successful when entire communities are involved in their implementation. We are fortunate to have committed community leaders across Ottawa County who have embraced this approach and the plan."

The plan will be reviewed and updated annually.

transportation because it would hurt businesses during a recession.

Voters in 2021 voted in favor of a measure on the ballot to fund TARTA with a county-wide .5 percent sales tax. The vote repealed the two property taxes that had funded TARTA for many years.

Tax agreement approved

An amendment to the enterprise zone agreement with First Solar, Inc. and Lake Township and Wood County was approved last week by the county commissioners.

The amendment covers an additional 200,000 square feet to the 1.8-million-square-foot manufacturing facility in the township that is expected to be operating by 2023.

The amendment also includes $25 million in capital and $10 million worth of processing equipment.

The company sought a 65 percent tax exemption for 15 years.

Lake Township approved a resolution in support of the amendment and Lake Local Schools and the Penta Career Center have agreements with the company covering the addition.

First Solar constructed a solar module manufacturing facility near the intersection of Tracy Road and State Rt. 795 in the township. That plant began operating in 2019.

Kaptur Secures Federal Funding for Nine Community-Led Projects

Congresswoman Marcy Kaptur (OH-09) released the following statement after securing more than $14 million in funding within the federal government's Fiscal Year 2022 appropriations bill for nine local projects across Ohio's 9th Congressional District. The bill passed the House and Senate this week, and President Biden is expected to sign it into law soon.

"Federal investments play a critical role in uplifting our people and unlocking our region's full potential," said Rep. Kaptur. "From significant new resources for education and mental healthcare, to next generation renewable energy and environmental stewardship programs – we are delivering for our needs. The millions of dollars coming home will support good-paying jobs, revitalize neighborhoods, and drive our progress forward."

Projects and funding include:

• $1.25 million for Toledo Public Schools to renovate and conduct energy upgrades at the Glann School/Common Space Community Center facility and community hub which hosts international, faith-based, and support-oriented community groups that provide arts and creative programming to local children and adults.

• $2 million for the Historic South Initiative to develop a U.S.-made solar panel field that will generate renewable energy and support neighborhood redevelopment in one of Toledo's lowest-income neighborhoods. Additionally, the SeaGate Food Bank will implement a solar demonstration project to increase energy efficiency and lower the organization's utility costs.

• $2.5 million for the Ohio Theatre and the Children's Theatre Workshop of Toledo to address facility damages, improve creative programming, and beautify a cultural touchstone on Lagrange Street.

• $2 million for the National Alliance on Mental Illness, Ohio Chapter to establish a mental health rehabilitation center able to provide care for up to 24 adult patients who have been discharged from a psychiatric hospital and need additional treatment under a supervised living arrangement.

• $500,000 for the University of Toledo Medical Center to acquire a new mobile medical unit to deliver a variety of healthcare services in underserved communities.

• $2 million for the Erie County Health Department/Erie County Community Health Center to create a new facility and acquire equipment to provide short-term housing to individuals needing behavioral and mental healthcare services, as well as assistance connecting with job, education, housing, and transportation programming.

• $1.25 million for the Toledo Technology Academy Auto Mechanic and Electric Vehicle Training, Curriculum, and Teacher Development Funding will be used by Toledo Public School's Technology Academy to establish an electric vehicle training program to provide students and workers the skills and knowledge for high-wage careers in a growing career field.

• 2 million for the Lucas County Sheriff's Office to design a new correction facility that includes a mental health treatment wing.

• $3.375 million for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to increase pump station capacity and remodel a retention basin that will eliminate sanitary sewage overflows into residential homes.

Libraries to host Community Reads

Join the Pemberville Public Library System's 2022 Community Reads Program, featuring discussions about the book, "Already Toast: Caregiving and Burnout in America," by Kate Washington.

This book is a memoir of the author's struggle to care for her seriously ill husband, offering a revealing look at the role unpaid family caregivers play in a society that fails to provide them with structural support.

Copies of the book are available at the Pemberville, Stony Ridge and Luckey libraries. The Luckey Area Library Movement and Friends of the Pemberville and Stony Ridge Libraries have sponsored a limited number of paperback copies to give away to participants.

Events will take place each Monday in April, starting with presentations about caregiving from Sara Chambers, from Hospice of Northwest Ohio, and Jessica Ricker, from the Wood County Committee on Aging, at the Stony Ridge Library on Monday, April 4 at 6 p.m.

Subsequent programs include discussions about the book April 11 at 6 p.m. at the Pemberville Library and April 18 at the Stony Ridge Library and a virtual visit with the author April 25 at 6 p.m. at Pemberville Library.

For the full schedule of events, visit the library's website at pembervillelibrary.org.

Educational grant awarded to Eastwood

The Northwestern Water and Sewer District has awarded the Eastwood High School Marine Biology class a grant for educational programs focusing on water.

The Water And Environment Teacher Education Resources grants assist local schools by providing direct funding to support educators in teaching about the importance of water resources.

In 2022, the district will be providing more than $5,100 to local schools to fund water-focused educational programs.

On March 18, the district presented teacher Eric Rutherford with a $500 grant for Eastwood's Marine Biology class. The grant will assist in purchasing the necessary water quality test kits and equipment used by the students. Some of the funding will help the class transition to digital water quality meters to help prepare the students as 21st-century learners.

Over the next several weeks, the district will also present grants to the educators from Bowling Green, Bowling Green Christian, Elmwood, Otsego, and Perrysburg schools.

"This is the largest year for our WATER grant program. We share in our educators' enthusiasm for teaching students about taking care of our number one resource, water," Jerry Greiner, district president, said.

The district introduced the WATER grant program in December 2014.

Kitten Shower & Adoption event

Fur Angels Rescue Shelter, a no-kill group (unless the animal is dangerous or euthanasia is medically necessary) which provides temporary and long-term shelter, food, medical treatment and care in a network of foster homes until each animal finds their perfect, forever home, is holding a Kitten Shower and Adoption Event.

Community members are invited to stop by Pet Supplies Plus, 6929 Central Ave., Sylvania, on Saturday, April 30 from 11 a.m.-2 p.m. and bring gifts for the kittens currently in the adoption program and for those who will be born and taken into the Fur Angels Rescue Shelter family in the coming months.

Items like KMR kitten milk, Miracle nipples and bottles, heated cat beds, pop-up playpens, kitten food, soft blankets, litter and toys are needed and appreciated.

Adult cats and kittens will also be available for adoption at the event.

Those who cannot attend the kitten shower can send donations to the organization directly from their Amazon or Chewy wish list, available at furangelsrs.org.

The non-profit Fur Angels Rescue Shelter, which has a goal of opening a brick-and-mortar shelter, does not receive any state or federal funding and relies on support from individuals and businesses to help the community's homeless animals.

The gifts and supplies collected at the Kitten Shower and Adoption Event will save the organization valuable dollars that can be used for spay/neuter and medical care instead and will allow the group to take in as many kittens as possible. The event will also help cats and kittens currently in the adoption program find their forever families and make space for more kittens.

Waterline projects set

Lane restrictions for motorists on Lemoyne Road are possible through April for a waterline relocation project in Lake Township.

The Northwestern Water and Sewer District began work last week on the project that stretches from Plumey Road to Walbridge Road.

In the City of Northwood, the district will be conducting another waterline project on Wales Road, east of Tracy Road.

The project is expected to start April 11 and continue through July. Traffic will be maintained by flaggers and area businesses will be notified about water service interruptions.

Appeal filed

The institute's complaint asserts that Toledo and Oregon do not have personal jurisdiction of the plaintiffs or jurisdiction over the property being taxed and there isn't a fiscal relation between the cities and the income being taxed.

"This court finds that HB 197 is constitutional under the General Assembly's broad intrastate powers of taxation over its residents," the court ruled. "The bill was enacted uniformly in an effort to legislatively address municipal taxing authority in a time of uncertainty by attempting to maintain tax revenues for municipalities. This court also finds that the plaintiffs' due process rights were not violated."

The institute has filed four other cases challenging HB 197:

-Buckeye v. Kilgore was filed in Franklin County Common Pleas Court in July 2020 and was appealed to the Ohio Supreme court in January 2022.

-Denison v. Kilgore was filed in Franklin County in February 2021 and settled in favor of the institute's client.

-Schaad v. Adler was filed in Hamilton County Common Pleas Court in February 2021 and is awaiting appeal to the supreme court.

-Morsy v. Dumas was filed in Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court in April 2021 and awaits a ruling.

Catherine Jo (CJ) Briggle

January 11, 1951 – March 19, 2022

"CJ" was born, January 11, 1951 at St. Charles Hospital (Toledo, Ohio), grew up in Curtice, and graduated from Genoa High School in the Comet class of 1969. One of nine, CJ's adventure began with a stint with the FBI in Washington, DC, employment with Questor (Toledo), P.I.E. trucking, Red Ball Express, sales representatives for union affairs in Denver, Las Vegas, and Phoenix, dispatcher, and lastly as an administrative clerk for the justice system of Maricopa County, Arizona.

She was an ardent Democrat, who worked diligently for years in organizing campaigns and candidate fundraisers, attending party rallies, and promoting social causes. CJ's travels included treks in Europe, Japan, the fifty states with notable memories made from Colorado, Montana, Arizona, and Ohio. She seldom missed family outings, whether the many niece or nephew weddings, Christmases, and the festive July retreats at the Put-in-Bay cottage.

Passionate about living, Cathi Jo cruised the seas, played the nickel slots, and became very adept at euchre, pinnacle, and as a tournament tested bridge master. Any gathering became a party with CJ.

Left to mourn her passing, are her siblings Rick (Gina) Briggle, Karen McKown, John (Ginny) Briggle, Tom (Linda) Briggle, Jean (Mike) Garrison, Patricia (Mike) Tokarcik, and Terrie (Ed) Jensen, numerous cousins, nieces, nephews, and the entire Schollmeyer family. Special Arizonian friends of Marlene, Keith, Ann, and Sean showed unconditional love for her. CJ's devotion to her three "rescue" dogs in Yoda, Willow, and Kai is inspirational as is her wishes for organ donations. Tributes considered could include the Humane Society, American Cancer Society, or one of personal choice.

Bueler Chandler Mortuary (www.buelermortuary.com) is making arrangements for her final interment. A celebration of her life is planned for later this year. Shed tears if you must, but find comfort in knowing CJ lived a life of proud service, generosity, and dedicated loyalty to others. To paraphrase the angel Clarence in "The Wonderful Life", she died rich with friends and with such wealth."

Oregon flow meters to reduce excess storm water

By Kelly J. Kaczala
News Editor
kkaczala@presspublications.com

Oregon City Council recently approved a purchase order to HACH Company - Flow Products & Services, Loveland, Colorado to provide materials and equipment for the Inflow and Infiltration (I/I) Reduction Program – Sanitary Sewer Flow Monitoring for $34,689.60.

In order to reduce or eliminate excessive storm water I/I from getting into the city's wastewater collection system, a program of flow monitoring, video detection and smoke testing was established in 2008 to identify I/I sources.

In addition to previous I/I investigations, the need for additional flow monitoring is warranted to help determine the effectiveness of I/I removal efforts in subdivisions of the city where sanitary sewer rehabilitation projects have been completed and to determine areas of focus for future I/I removal and sanitary sewer rehabilitations efforts.

Flow meters

The quote from HAC Company – Flow Products & Services was reviewed by the Oregon Public Service Department and was determined to be fair and reasonable for the work required. The quote is for equipment rental, which includes the flow meters, mounting assemblies, data transfer and cabling, and data consistency evaluation. It also includes the installation/removal of 10 temporary sanitary sewer flow meters in specified locations in the sanitary sewer collection system. These will be installed for a total of four months. Monitoring is expected to begin in March and conclude in June, according to Donald Nelson, Environmental Specialist with the public service department.

The quote also includes wireless transmitting capabilities for real-time data capture and analysis during rain events.

One of the goals of this project is to determine the effectiveness of I/I removal efforts in subdivisions of the city where sanitary sewer rehabilitation projects have been completed. These include Old Eastmoreland, Euclid Park, Woodville Heights, East Hollywood, Ketchams Little Farms, Moundview, and South Shore Park subdivisions.

NPDES

“This year, we will be renewing our NPDES permit with the wastewater plant,” said Public Service Director Paul Roman. “It's good to show what you've done in the past is effective.”

A National Pollutant Discharge Elimination Systems (NPDES) permit must be obtained from the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency (Ohio EPA) Division of Surface Water whenever there is a discharge of treated or partially treated water to a surface water of the state. NPDES permits exist to regulate wastewater discharges by placing limitations on the quantity of pollutants that may be discharged and to establish monitoring requirements and other conditions.

Another goal is to determine areas of focus for future I/I removal and sanitary sewer rehabilitation efforts. These areas include subdivisions east of Wheeling Street in the Wheeling Street Sanitary Sewer District and South Shore Park, south of Bay Shore Road.

City council appropriated the funds required for the work as part of this year's municipal budget.

Museum picks St. Paddy's Day drawing winner

Catawba Island Historical Society held the first of its 2022 membership drawings on St. Paddy's Day. All current annual members were included.

The "luck of the Irish" was with Bill and Miriam Forquer, whose names were drawn by Jane Spietersbach, curator of the Society's Catawba Union Chapel Museum.

The purpose of the drawings was to broaden the base of the Historical Society by attracting additional annual members. Separate events are held for those with lifetime memberships. The society funds Union Chapel Museum with membership dues. That way, the Museum can open its doors to the public without charging for admission.

The prize for the March drawing was a signed, framed print by local watercolor artist Patty Cable Wildman. It depicts a whimsical summer picnic at Union Chapel as if built on the Lake Erie shoreline. Recently deceased historian Don Rhodes is portrayed as one of the picnic participants.

A second drawing is scheduled for annual and lifetime historical society members in May when Union Chapel Museum opens for its fifth season. The prize is slated to be a group dining experience at a renowned entertainment venue.

More information about becoming a member of Catawba Island Historical Society is available at catawbaislandhistoricalsociety.com.

Motorcycles are sharing roads in higher numbers

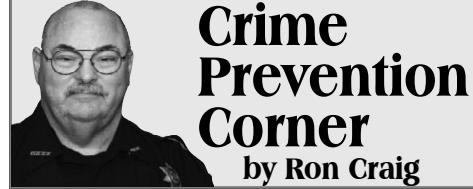

Warmer weather is teasing us, with higher temperatures one day and cooler the next, but spring is now upon us.

Along with that warmer weather comes an increase in the number of motorcycles with which we are sharing the roads.

What is not normal is the increase in prices for gasoline, which is currently hovering around the $4 per gallon mark, with the likelihood they will continue to climb as things develop in Ukraine.

As travelers do what they can to counter these increases in gasoline costs, it is a sure bet that more will turn to riding motorcycles. While an increase in the number of motorcyclists presents a challenge of its own, many of these riders will be novice ones who lack the expertise of more seasoned riders.

Because of their size, motorcycles are by nature more difficult to see in traffic. This is just one of the factors that make it more important for other motorists to be vigilant in their travels.

It is always important for drivers to pay attention to their driving and their surroundings, which means they should not be distracted by talking or texting on their phones. But when you add into the equation more motorcycles on the road, its importance becomes exponentially more so.

Because of motorcycles' reduced visibility, drivers of other vehicles need to be more careful when making turns and changing lanes.

An increased sense of safety and caution is also the responsibility of motorcycle riders themselves.

Motorcyclists should always have their headlights on, regardless of weather conditions. Driving defensively is rarely more important than while riding a motorcycle. Those riding motorcycles need to be ready to take evasive action quickly to avoid a crash, even when it is the other drivers' actions that make these maneuvers necessary.

Motorcyclists have the same rights to travel on the roads as drivers of other vehicles. Drivers of other vehicles need to accept this and realize they have an obligation to practice safe driving skills while keeping in mind this is the time of year more motorcycles are going to be on the roads.

Reps sponsor police hiring database bill

State representatives Michael Sheehy, D-Oregon, and Paula Hicks-Hudson, D-Toledo, have provided sponsor testimony on House Bill 11, which would require the Ohio Attorney General to create a law enforcement officer database for hiring eligibility.

The database would house information regarding law enforcement officers who have been terminated from employment, resigned in lieu of a termination, resigned during a departmental investigation, or resigned before a disciplinary hearing within 30 days of the termination or resignation.

It also creates a database tracking the terminations and resignations of law enforcement officers across the state of Ohio.

"House Bill 11 would ensure that police departments have all the information they need when making hiring decisions. Law enforcement officers tasked to protect and serve our communities should not be able to conceal past misconduct, emotional instability, or wrongdoing when seeking employment at another law enforcement agency. This legislation will keep our communities safer, and I am encouraged by the bipartisan support House Bill 11 has received," said Rep. Sheehy.

The bill was inspired by the recommendations of then-Governor John Kasich's Task Force on Community-Police Relations in 2015, as well as the death of Tamir Rice. The officer involved in the death of Rice resigned from the Independence Police Department when he was deemed emotionally unstable and unfit for duty, particu-

County risk pool lauded

The County Risk Sharing Authority, a risk-sharing pool designed for counties, has received recognition from the Association of Governmental Risk Pools (AGRIP) for adopting industry best practices.

Wood County Commissioner Craig LaHote currently serves as board treasurer and has been an active board member since 2019. Ottawa County Commissioner Mark Stahl also serves on the board of directors.

The AGRIP Recognition requires pools to undergo a self-assessment to ensure pool operations meet professional standards and industry best practices.

CORSA is a member-owned property and liability risk sharing pool sponsored by the County Commissioners Association of Ohio. CORSA is governed by nine directors who are county commissioners from member counties and provides property and liability coverage as well as risk management services to 66 counties and 41 county-affiliated public entities.

ly regarding the use of firearms. The officer then sought employment in Cleveland, where he lied about his reasons for leaving his previous department.

"I have had many conversations with law enforcement personnel, community members, and government officials who question how trust and confidence can be restored between law enforcement and citizens. This bill is one step in the right direction," said Rep. Hicks-Hudson.

The bill awaits further hearings in the House State and Local Government Committee.

Don't worry about what other people think

Are you concerned about what other people think about you and how you lead your life? Are your decisions influenced by the way you anticipate other people will see them? Are you worried about criticism? Does ridicule bother you? Why are you concerned about someone else's thoughts or opinions anyway?

We grow up being taught to worry about what other people think. How many times did you hear, "What will the neighbors think?", "What will your friends think?", "What will the relatives think?", or "What will people think?" in response to something you did or wanted to do?

When you adjust your behavior to conform to what others think, you stifle your goals and restrict your happiness. Continually striving to meet someone else's goals in place of your own causes you endless frustration.

Too many people structure their entire lives in response to their concern for the opinions of others. Where they live, who they marry, their occupation, and who they associate with, are just some of their decisions determined by what other people think.

Why do we fall into this trap and what can we do about it? It starts with our craving for acceptance. As children we seek approval from our parents. Over time this need spreads to friends, relatives, and even strangers. Additionally, the hunger for acceptance is combined with seeking to avoid criticism, ridicule, and rejection.

These are powerful emotions because they are based on the fear of "what if." What if people make fun of me? What if

by Bryan Golden

I'm not included? What if people don't invite me? What if people don't approve of what I'm doing? The list is endless but the result is the same: conforming to what other people might think ultimately makes you unhappy.

The irony is that even when you do what you think other people want, they either don't care or aren't satisfied anyway. So, after adjusting your life, nothing has changed except the fact that you are continually unhappy. So, in the end, it doesn't matter what anyone else thinks.

Today is the day to break free in order to start living on your terms. You begin from where you are right now. There's no point to lamenting any past decisions. Your objective is to avoid repeating past mistakes while moving forward.

It doesn't matter if you are criticized for taking control of your life. After all, attempting to avoid criticism didn't work out too well. There is no obligation to explain why you are changing direction. You don't have to convince anyone that this is the right course for you.

Where you want to go from here is based on an honest assessment of yourself. What are your strengths? What are your weaknesses? What do you like? What do you dislike? What are your goals? If you don't know the answers to these questions, it's essential that you take time to figure them out.

Next, you need to formulate a step-by-step plan to get where you want to be. Each step must be small enough to be manageable. If one step seems too big, break it down into smaller sub-steps.

Now it's time for action. The formula for success is taking one step at a time. Don't worry about what other people think. The direction of your life and your happiness is your responsibility.

Setbacks are a normal part of goal attainment. Yet, this is the point at which you will be inundated with negative advice, criticism, and even ridicule. Ignore all of it. When you stumble, get up, dust yourself off, and resume your journey forward.

How much of inflation is really price gouging?

By Lindsay Owens

If you've been slammed lately by higher prices on everything from groceries to rental cars and gas prices, you're probably wondering what on earth is behind these skyrocketing costs.

Corporations are quick to blame this new reality on the pandemic, but another major culprit is hiding in plain sight: their own profiteering.

Four times a year, corporations are required by law to update their investors on how they're doing in terms of sales and profits. These are called "earnings reports," and the companies will usually hold calls with the investors to walk them through the latest report.

My organization, Groundwork Collaborative, recently got our hands on the transcripts from hundreds of these earnings calls. And you won't believe what CEOs are boasting about.

Knowing that the current inflation frenzy is a convenient scapegoat, these companies are charging customers even more to pad their profit margins. They aren't just admitting it — they're openly bragging to investors about how well it's working.

"I think we've done a great job with our pricing," boasted the CFO of Hormel, a maker of popular grocery brands. "I think it's been very effective." As prices went up, the company improved its operating income by 19 percent in the first quarter of 2022 compared to 2021.

Constellation Brands, the parent company of popular beers Modelo and Corona, is also engaging in bald-faced profiteering. On its January call, Constellation's CFO admitted that its consumer base "skews a bit more Hispanic" and the company wants to "take as much as [we] can" from them.

And now, the conflict in Ukraine is providing yet another opportunity for oil and gas companies to pad their bottom lines. "It's tragic what's going on in Eastern Europe," said one oil executive in late February. "But if anything, these high prices, the volatility, drive even more energy security and long-term contracting."

This pandemic profiteering is taking a massive toll on consumers, workers, and small businesses.

Low-income Americans are pinching pennies to feed their families and pay their bills. And while mega-companies can use their market power to raise prices and generate record profits, small businesses and independent retailers are struggling to keep their doors open.

The appalling price gouging and monopolistic behavior we're monitoring comes on top of decades of disinvestment in our workers and supply chain, excessive corporate power, and financial markets maximizing short-term profits. This broken system left us wholly unprepared to accommodate increases in demand.

But make no mistake: next time you experience sticker shock in the checkout line, it's a safe bet that corporate executives and shareholders are reaping the rewards. People are catching on: A new poll from Data for Progress and Groundwork finds that 63 percent of voters believe that "large

It's tragic what's going on in Eastern Europe.

corporations are taking advantage of the pandemic to raise prices unfairly on consumers and increase profits."

Policy makers are taking notice, too. The New York Attorney General's office just announced new price gouging rules, paving the way for other states to follow suit.

And days after President Biden promised action on pandemic price gouging, congressional oversight panels opened investigations into the three major ocean shipping alliances. These outfits control about 80 percent of seaborne cargo and have seen their profits increase seven-fold from the previous year.

Finally, a recently-introduced bill, the COVID-19 Price Gouging Prevention Act, would help the Federal Trade Commission and State Attorneys General protect people across the country from pandemic profiteering.

Without competition and robust regulation to keep them in check, big corporations have gotten away with using the pandemic to push up prices and fatten their profit margins — and if they aren't reined in, high prices could be here to stay.

Crying wolf?

To the editor: I listened to the Ukrainian president plead for help, and I also read that Zelensky is a dictator. As with the boy who cried "wolf," we don't know what to believe.

However, what we do know is that our current leader, who is occupying the Oval Office, cares nothing about protecting our borders and cares everything about protecting Ukraine's borders.

What we do know is that he gave Ukraine $10 billion, not million. Seven days ago President Biden also announced $800 million in military aid. On Feb. 2022 Biden said $350 million in military aid. What we do know is that, as proven by the Ukraine bribery video, Biden gave Ukraine a billion dollars in 2020, while Americans receive crumbs. In David vs. Goliath, David was the good guy and we all know who won that fight. God is on the side of good and only God knows the truth. Something just isn't right about the Russia/Ukraine war. Too many people live by their feelings and not wisdom.

Inflation question

To the editor: It seems logical that when a democratic society causes a huge inflation upon its citizens that everything would increase in cost.

Not so. Food, gas, electricity, services etc and other items have gone up in a non-ending fashion.

Then why haven't our Social Security benefits gone up equally? Same old story. Forgot about those of us who can't work anymore. Too old perhaps.

Wake up America, the Washington big boys only need us at election time. Remember their names.

Robotics changing structure

By Jim Hightower

In corporate speak, there are no "job cuts." Instead, firings are blandly referred to as "employment adjustments." Now though, corporate word-smiths will need a whole new thesaurus of euphemisms for the massive job cuts coming in the higher echelons of the corporate structure.

Don't look now, but an unanticipated result of the ongoing pandemic is that it's given cover for CEOs to speed up the adoption of highly-advanced "Robotic Process Automation," or RPAs, to replace employees once assumed to be immune from displacement.

As one analyst told a New York Times reporter, "With RPA you can build a bot that costs $10,000 a year and take out two to four humans."

Prior to the COVID crisis, many top executives feared a public backlash if they pushed automation too far too fast. But ironically, the economic backpedaling caused by the pandemic has so discombobulated the workplace and diverted public attention that corporate bosses have been emboldened to rush ahead.

One happy purveyor of RPA systems notes that the pandemic has "massively raised awareness among executives about the variety of work that no longer requires human involvement." He cheerfully declares: "We think any business process can be automated," advising corporate bosses that half to two-thirds of all the tasks being done at their companies can be done by machines.

Conventional corporate wisdom blithely preaches that all new technologies create more jobs than they kill, but even those Pollyannaish preachers are now conceding that this robotic automation of white-collar jobs is being imposed so suddenly, widely, and stealthily that losses will crush any gains.

"We haven't hit the exponential point of this stuff yet," warns an alarmed analyst. "And when we do, it's going to be dramatic."

B-C-S school included in drug education pilot program

By Press Staff Writer

R.C. Waters Elementary School in the Benton-Carroll-Salem School District is one of seven schools in the state to be included in a drug education and mentorship pilot program.

Gov. Mike DeWine announced the launch of the program last week.

The Drug Resilience Education Awareness Mentorship (DREAM) program was developed by the Ohio Narcotics Intelligence Center, Ohio Task Force Commanders Association, and Buckeye State Sheriff's Association with support from Recovery Ohio.

The program offers a variety of videos for students, including a special role model series featuring several standout Ohioans delivering positive messages on the importance of hard work, the dangers of using or abusing substances, and the importance of never giving up on dreams.

In the first round of videos, local elementary students interview a role model, including Shilese Jones, U.S. national team gymnast; Erin Bender, executive director of The Point at Otterbein University, and Angela Gould, media specialist at Glacier Ridge Elementary.

"The DREAM program provides Ohio educators, local law enforcement, parents, guardians, and others with a new opportunity to have important age appropriate discussions with kids about drug use and how it can negatively impact their futures," the governor said. "The new DREAM program is another tool to help enforce the drug free message early and often."

The program is intended to complement other curricula already in use such as DARE, the HOPE Curriculum, and Generation Rx.

Tom Stickrath, director of the Ohio Department of Public Safety, said the program gives law enforcement an opportunity to have a presence within drug and alcohol education being taught in schools.

The K-3 pilot program is in schools in Hamilton, Lake, Paulding, Union and Marion counties in addition to R.C. Waters in Ottawa County.

It will later be expanded to older age groups.

Betty the Gecko and friends making a splash at Lake Schools

When most people think of classroom pets, they typically think of fish or hamsters.

However, the options are much more diverse. In Thomas Mahas' eighth-grade science room at Lake High School geckos, bearded dragons, a red-footed tortoise, and a colony of cockroaches have become pets.

While the animals were originally collected for use in the eighth-grade science room, the goal was to have a larger impact on the entire district. Earlier in the year, three geckos were provided to other Lake staff to use in both the elementary and middle schools. Each of these animals has developed its own interest within classrooms. Students and staff have enjoyed naming and getting to know each one. One of the geckos was affectionately named Betty White in deference to the late actor.

Additionally, several students elected to research and write about the care of a specific animal, and if selected then took care of one animal over a short break. Seventh-grader McKinley Johnston took Betty the Gecko home over spring break. "She is very interesting to watch her eat, and I enjoy getting to see her every day," she said.

Over the next few weeks, several animals will make a trip to the elementary school. Students will be able to see live examples of topics they have been learning about with the bearded dragon and tortoise to visit Jennifer Maguire's kindergarten class, and cockroaches to visit Rebecca Miklavic's first-grade class. More visits are being planned for elementary classes for good behavior rewards and in the middle school after state testing.

Next year, Mahas is planning to equip high school students to be animal ambassadors. They will be educated in the care and handling of the pets as well as be knowledgeable about the animals themselves. As animal ambassadors, they will be the ones to bring them to other classrooms for presentations. The goal of this program would be to empower students with opportunities to lead and share their own passions for these fascinating animals. The hope is to expand the program with a few more animals as well. Many students have been asking for a snake to be a part of the classroom.

All of the pets and supplies have come as donations from people in the community like Braedan Henegar, known as Critter Getter.

Not only do these animals provide a learning experience to students but also have contributed to the daily life and wellbeing of students. On more than one occasion students have sought out time with these classroom animals to cope with the stress of school. Others have been able to spend time with a specific animal as a reward for completing an especially difficult or stressful task.

Gibsonburg student revealed as BGSU Freddie mascot

Several Bowling Green State University students were recently revealed as the "face behind the mask" of the University's beloved mascots, Freddy and Frieda, and secret spirit crew, SICSIC.

The long-awaited reveals took place at the Slater Family Ice Arena and Stroh Center as fans cheered on the Falcons in battles against conference rivals.

On Feb. 26, the 2021-22 mascots, comprised of three Freddies and three Friedas, were revealed between that day's men's and women's basketball games. Among them were Jordon Egbert, a senior dietetics major minoring in leadership from Gibsonburg, who was unmasked as Freddie Falcon No. 1. Hailey Kurtz, a junior studying biology on the pre-med track from Hilliard, was revealed as this year's Frieda No. 1.

The 2021-22 BGSU mascots were advised by Dr. Jacob Clemens, who also serves as the director of the C. Raymond Marvin Center for Student Leadership.

R.C. Waters Top Class Dojos

Clay High School Limelighters will present the musical, "Big Fish," April 1-3. Tickets are available at claylimelighters.org. (Submitted photo by Jordan Silva)

Clay Limelighters to present spring musical, "Big Fish"

Clay High School Limelighters will present the hit musical, "Big Fish," Friday and Saturday, April 1 and 2 at 7 p.m. and Sunday, April 3 at 3 p.m. in the high school auditorium, 5665 Seaman Rd., Oregon.

Adapted from the celebrated 1998 novel by Daniel Wallace and the acclaimed film directed by Tim Burton, the musical celebrates the extraordinary in everyday life.

"Big Fish" tells the story of Edward Bloom, a traveling salesman who lives life to its fullest – and then some. Edward's incredible, larger-than-life stories thrill everyone around him – most of all, his devoted wife Sandra. But their son Will, about to have a child of his own, doesn't think there's any truth to the extravagant tales of his father meeting witches, kissing mermaids or joining the circus.

When Edward's health begins to decline, Will must decide whether to accept his father's wild stories as truth or risk losing what he is searching for. Overflowing with heart and humor, "Big Fish" is an endearing, heart-touching musical that reminds audiences why they love going to the theatre – for an experience that's richer, funnier and bigger than life itself.

Reserved seating tickets are available at claylimelighters.org. Tickets are $12 for adults and $10 for seniors and students. Only general admission tickets will be available at the door.
